Prosperity Textile Shifts to Better Cotton

Chinese denim mill Prosperity Textile will begin using Better Cotton for all its lightweight cotton denim fabrics beginning with the Spring/Summer 2017 season.

The Better Cotton Initiative (BCI) is a non-profit organization that seeks to bridge the cotton supply chain from farmer to retailers by providing global standards for sustainable cotton production.

"We believe sustainable cotton is what every denim mill should use, and we value the importance Better Cotton has for both farmers and the industry in general," said Leo Ku, president of Prosperity Textile, in a statement.

Prosperity Textile can produce up to 2 million yards per month of lightweight denim, including shirting and dress-weight fabrics. According to the company, there will be no change in the price with the shift to Better Cotton.

"Prosperity Textile's ambitious target is an example that we hope will inspire other textile mills to be a part of the initiative," said Paola Geremicca, BCI director of communications and fund-raising. "Their support, and the support of our members, helps us to establish a more sustainable cotton sector."

Andrew Olah, chief executive of Olah Inc., which manages Prosperity's U.S. sales and produces the Kingpins denim trade show, said more retailers and brands are looking to source sustainable cotton. In addition to Olah Inc., Levi Strauss & Co., G-Star Raw, Marks & Spencer, Tommy Hilfiger, Adidas, H&M, IKEA, VF, Inditex and Nike are members of BCI.

Schoeller Adds West Coast Sales Manager

Swiss textile maker Schoeller Textil added a new member to its U.S. team with the addition of Fawn Knadler as West Coast sales manager.

Based in Seattle, Knadler was most recently merchandising manager for apparel and outerwear at Mervin Manufacturing and saw the Seattle snowboard company through its sale by Quiksilver Inc. to Extreme Holdings Inc. She has also served as director of sales for Seattle-based Spacecraft and project manager at Utility Inc., where she worked with both established outdoor companies and emerging brands.

"I am very pleased that Fawn will be joining the Schoeller family and bring her many business skills and talents to her new position as West Coast sales manager," said Stephen Kerns, president of Schoeller USA. "I am confident she will make great contributions to our continued global growth."

Based in Newburyport, Mass., Schoeller Textil USA is a subsidiary of Sevelen, Switzerland-based Schoeller Textil AG, the 149-year-old textile manufacturer of technical fabrics and smart textile finishing technologies. For more information, visit www.schoeller-textiles.com.

"More and more of our customers are seeking fabrics made with sustainable cotton, and Better Cotton is one excellent option," Olah said.

Founded in 1995, Prosperity Textile is a vertically integrated denim production facility with the capacity to produce 60 million yards annually. The company provides research and development, design, and manufacturing services to customers worldwide.

Located in Shaoguan, China, the company dyes, weaves and finishes its fabrics in weights ranging from 5 oz. to 15 oz. for menswear, womenswear and childrenswear. In addition to BCI cotton, Prosperity also produces fabric from other sustainable fibers including Tencel, hemp, recycled materials and organic cotton.

Global Merino Showcasing Wool Blends With Creora Eco-Soft

At the January 2016 edition of the Outdoor Retailer trade show in Salt Lake City, Global Merino Inc. is showing new fabrics made from blends of Merino wool and Creora Eco-Soft, a spandex engineered to maintain a soft hand and good drape when mixed with heat-sensitive fibers, including natural fibers such as cotton, wool and silk as well as cellulose fibers such as rayon, Modal and Tencel.

Global Merino's new developments include a Merino wool/polyester/Creora Eco-Soft blend for cyclists that offers warmth, comfort, fit and movement. Another fabric is Global Merino's Mini Terry, which provides warmth without weight as well as freedom of movement for activities such as running, skiing and hiking.

"We are using Creora Eco-Soft low-heat-set spandex to maintain the softness of the Merino wool in fabric while delivering stretch and recovery for enhanced comfort and fit," said Jose Fernandez, chief executive officer of Global Merino Inc.

Based in San Anselmo, Calif., Global Merino specializes in technical textiles using Merino wool in unique constructions. The company's developments have been recognized by ISPO Textrends for its base-layer and second-layer fabrications.
