Fall/Winter '17-'18 Key Denim Directions by Trendstop

Denim is transcending its workwear roots. Global fashion forecasting agency Trendstop gave us the lowdown on the major denim trends for Fall/Winter '17/'18—from key silhouettes to surface finishes. This season's denim is all about elevating a closet staple. No longer just a casual classic, contemporary denim pieces fuse sharp tailoring, surface texture and eastern aesthetics for a fresh fashion-forward take on utilitywear.

Eastern Ease

Eastern influences give denim an easy appeal with outsized proportions and wide-leg silhouettes that make a play on shape and form. Dark indigo washes reference the iconic style of Japanese denim.

Quilted Indigo

Winter denim swaps bulky and heavy for light and layered. Padding and quilting create puffy, air-filled pieces with an emphasis on comfort and wearability that never loses its luxe appeal.

Refined Denim

Clean-cut, structured silhouettes in darkened weaves bring contemporary tailoring into the denim arena. Boxy shapes, crisply starched folds and sharp splicing invest utilitarian looks with a polished refinement.

Kornit Says New Vulcan Printers Can Reduce Cost Per Print by 40 Percent

Commercial printing solutions provider Kornit Digital North American is preparing to begin shipping its Vulcan system.

The Vulcan is a digital platform that Kornit says “rivals screen printing for mid-to-long runs.” Compared to Kornit’s current systems, Vulcan can reduce the cost per print by up to 40 percent, according to the company. The direct-to-garment printing system can produce up to 250 garments per hour. Dark and light garments can be printed at the same speed. With 60 printheads and a recirculating ink system in a six-color-plus-white configuration, the Vulcan can reproduce photorealistic quality. The system allows for multiple print sizes and configurations up to 27.5 inches by 39.5 inches. The Vulcan uses Kornit’s NeoPigment patented printing process. The Oeko-Tex 100–certified and GOTS preapproved water-based inks work on natural fibers, synthetics and blends and allow for inline pretreatment, according to the company. After printing, the garments can be cured with a standard hot-air dryer.

break-even point between analog and digital production methods,” said Rich Thompson, marketing director of Kornit Digital North America, in a company statement. “With drastically lowered ink consumption and unit cost, the Vulcan competes with screen-printing carousels not only for short but also for mid-to-long runs. Plus, it offers the ability to offer completely new products and services, such as high-quality, photorealistic prints and variable data printing. In essence, the Vulcan is a groundbreaking technology that every major garment decorator and screen printer should be interested in.”

Kornit will be demonstrating the new system at an open house that runs July 11–29 at the company’s headquarters in Mequon, Wis. The company has invited brands, garment decorators, screen printers, e-tailers and promotional-goods manufacturers to visit the open house, where the company will demonstrate its entire line of direct-to-garment printing systems. First introduced in 2015, the Vulcan will be commercially available by third quarter 2016.

Kornit Digital develops and manufactures commercial printing solutions for the apparel and textile industries. In addition to direct-to-garment printing, the company also produces roll fabric printers using a single ink set with no additional finishing processes. Founded in 2003, the company has offices in the United States, Asia Pacific and Europe. For more information, visit www.kornit.com.—Alison A. Nieder

Tim Gunn Returns to Speak at Gerber Ideation 2016

“Project Runway” star Tim Gunn will be speaking about the convergence of fashion and technology at Gerber Technology’s Ideation technology conference in Miami Beach, Fla.

This marks Gunn’s second time speaking at the event. Set for Sept. 28–30 at The Ritz-Carlton, the event will feature a conversation between Gunn and Gerber Technology Chief Executive Officer Mike Elia on “the role of technology in fashion and how businesses can leverage technology to enhance innovation and improve their competitive edge.” In addition to serving as co-host and mentor on Lifetime fashion reality show “Project Runway,” Gunn is also one of the show’s producers. He has also served as fashion dean at Fifth & Pacific, chief creative officer at Liz Claiborne Inc., and as a member of the administration and faculty at Parsons School of Design, where he was design chair of the department of fashion design. He is also the author of several books, including “Tim Gunn: A Guide to Quality, Taste and Style”; “Gunn’s Golden Rules: Life’s Little Lessons for Making It Work”; “Tim Gunn’s Fashion Bible: The Fascinating History of Everything in Your Closet”; and “Tim Gunn: The Natty Professor: A Master Class on Mentoring, Motivating and Making It Work!”

In addition to Gunn and Elia’s discussion, Ideation will feature a series of panel discussions, breakout sessions and case studies, workshops and demonstrations, a fashion show, a customer appreciation event, and networking opportunities.

La Lame

Products and Services: What would you call a fabric that scuba divers use to pursue their goals? Well, of course, that would be called "SCUBA." La Lame is doing very well with its scuba fabric called "SCUBA," which is a version of neoprene. The "Neoprene" has more than 10 solid colors with black and white often in stock and other fashion colors available. Our highest-quality Neoprene is now featured in Bloomingdale's and Saks. The digital prints in the Neoprene fabric are beautifully executed with vibrant colors, some with 20 colors or more. We are now developing our Neoprene with laser executions. This development will be available shortly. The lace line at La Lame has been expanded. We now offer laces that have been embroidered, giving a new, textured look. Also, our geometric laces with sequins give our customers a larger line of choice. These features are receiving a positive reaction from many new customers. Note: La Lame will be at Première Vision in New York showing the elite French line Bugis Textiles of France. For more information, visit our website.
